

Version: 24.8.3.2 (X86_64) / LibreOffice Community
Build: 48a6bac9e7e268aeb4c3483fcf825c94556d9f92

file: StampaSerieIndirizzi2.odt

The procedure you have done leads to correct results and I have nothing to say. I use a different procedure that only uses the Mail Merge toolbar (fig. 1) to create the desired documents, so I can scroll through and preview the various documents that would be created.

So in your point two I do not use File -> Print, but one of the five toolbar buttons, (8, 9, 10,11), e.g. 9 (Save merged documents).

Now this latest version of libreoffice is worse, to deselect unwanted documents I used to use the 7 selection box matched to the record that appeared in 4 and the document. Now it doesn't work anymore, it doesn't change the record number in 4 when using the buttons 2,3,5,6 even if the document changes, and it doesn't keep the selection record by record but either all selected or all deselected, then if you go to produce the documents with 9 it's pure fantasy.

With previous versions, the record number in 4 was in accordance with what appeared in the document, the deselection in 7 was remembered correctly record by record, but when you went to do various document production tests with various combinations via button 9, you did not get what you wanted.

With buttons 8, 10, 11 the same incorrect results were obtained.